THE END AT LAST.

The surrender of the Apache chief in Arzona is the closing scene in the struggle which began at Plymouth Rock two hundred and fifty years ago between the white men and the red men for possession of this continent. Never again will the lindian dely or deny the authority of the the indian dery or deny the inthority or the white man. Never again will there be an ludinn wir. The fings a begun in the first settlement in the wilderness. Its field has been the wilderness, sterilly receding westward, and the end has once because there are maillenges but. The Indian cause there is no winderness left. The Indian has been conquered by the pread of civil zation, no by unit any force. The forg contest is a con-spiritus fee and of American history, and it is the only for me a one conspicuous and discreditable. It is a record of selfish aggression stead y puse ted. Its us as layer been as often followed at r, and its numplish have been without become. The contest was between civilization Such " contest can have but one and that it is come at last. And as if to ett.phasize the reproach of the long and shame-ful record, the final triumph comes as the result of a humane and honorable policy, and without a fight. If the policy mangurated by General iles 'en years ago in the northern territories had been employed in dealings with king Philips and pursued steadily with the various tribes and estilements as civilization marched westward, the story might have been very different. But the end would have been the same In he still lives and must be taken care of The reservation system is a failure as all new admit.

Attempts to alter the Indian character by education have not proved satisfactory. Even Christianity has not been able to save the falling race. It is believed that time will solve the problem by removing the Indian from the face of the earth, but in the meantime justice and every sentiment of humanity urge the employment of such neans as may serve to avert the fate of utter extermination. Experience has demon a rited that education, to the degree attempted to the state and elsewhere, as not one of these means If anything can save the Indum it is the system proposed by Gen Miles—a gradual progress of civilization through the natural stages. He would make of the Indian a hords man, and from this beginning he would lead him up to agriculture and the mechanic arts. We have little faith in any system to stay what this plan of Gen. Miles a is the wisest jet

San I rancisco wants to impose a license tax upour representatives of eastern houses doing bustness in that city. The supreme court of the United states in the case of Walling wa the people on an appeal from Michigan held that a discriminating tax imposed on commercial travelers from other states was invalid. From this decision it is gathered that anything in the nature of a discriminating time—that is a state tax discriminating against the citizens or products of other states—cannot be sipported under the constitution of the United States. Portland it is poses a city license upon drummers or commercial travelers from other states that have thrown a few dollars into the city reasory. It has not been contested but is plainly invalid. The tax is not heavy and but few drummers have pad more than a simily part of tax in moses hence it has been cheaper to pay a two or three day's heeries after doug from one D tartes week a business than contest the ordinance.
